

01:146:270 Fundamentals of Cell and Developmental Biology

Fall 2022

Course Director: Prof. Qian Cai (cai@dls.rutgers.edu)

Additional Instructors: Prof. Ron Hart (rhart@dls.rutgers.edu); Prof. Max Tischfield (max.tischfield@rutgers.edu)

Topics: This course will address fundamental concepts of cell biology, with a touch of human genetics. After completing this course, students should have a strong fundamental grasp of the following concepts:

1. The structure and function of DNA and chromosomes, the regulation of gene expression, and how proteins are produced from gene sequences
2. Sexual reproduction, including mechanisms for gene variation and the contribution towards development and disease
3. The structure and function of proteins and how they are sorted within cells and transported across cell membranes
4. How cells regulate energy production and consumption
5. The control of signal transduction and its effects on the cytoskeleton and cell migration
6. How cells regulate and accomplish cell division

Learning Goals: The learning goals for this course are consistent with general goals set by the Department of Cell Biology and Neuroscience, as well as the Division of Life Sciences.

1. Obtain factual and conceptual knowledge in fundamentals of cell biology and development (with a hint of neuroscience) that will provide a strong foundation for success in advanced training and professional careers.
2. Develop an ability to summarize, integrate and organize information.
3. Use scientific reasoning to evaluate the potential for current research and new discoveries to improve our understanding of cell biology and its relevance to human health and our society.

Required Materials:

- Required Text (2013): ESSENTIAL CELL BIOLOGY, by Alberts, Hopkin, Johnson, Morgan, Raff, Roberts, and Walter, 5th Edition; WW Norton & Company. ISBN-13: 978-0393679533
- Lecture slides, audio lecture recordings (as available), and primary research literature assigned by the instructors will be posted in Canvas
- All course materials are copyrighted by the university and the individual instructors. Unauthorized distribution of these materials could violate the University Academic Integrity Policy and may subject you to disciplinary action

Grading Policy: Three 80-minute exams (Hart, Tischfield, Cai) will count for 90% of the student grade. Each module will have 1-2 online quizzes, which in total will account for 10% of the final grade. Letter grades will be assigned according to normal University guidelines.

Schedule: Classes meet twice per week in BUSCH EN-B120 on Wednesday and Friday. Note that Wednesday is period 2 (10:20-11:40am), but Friday is period 5 (3:50-5:10pm).

Regular office hours will be posted or by arrangement with individual instructors. There will generally be a review session offered prior to exams--these will be announced in class and on Canvas.
